works, and has received, so far, an unprecedented circulation."

"Many Stansm.—Its authoreus, Mrs. Gray, has acherical so little reputation as a correct delineator of English life and manners; and we can recommend it to our readers as a correct work for family reading.

"It is an interesting and well written novel, it is earnest and trathful—illustrated by a vigorous and exciting pot and thriling in cidents. The characters are drawn with a healthy and powerful pan. Mary Scalam is a superior story.

"The fiction is, we think, the best Mirs. Grey ever wrote, or, at least, equaled only by the 'Gamblert's Wiso." The story is that of a young girl, who conquers a first, implaced statchment, and secures happiness by transferring her affections to a more worthy object; a useful and instructive theme."

THE MOST BRILLIANT ROMANCE

cone heastifiet illustrated Volume,
THE GUERILLA CHIEF; on, THE ROMANCE OF WAR. By Captain Grant.
This splendtd work of faction is calculated to obtain as wide a popularity in this country as it already has done in England. It has powerfully and truthfully written Picture of Warf in all its phases, and has received the unqualified indorsement of the whole English Press, as a work brilliant in its composition and never excelled in the absorbing interest which it awaked in the mind of the reader. From among numerous notices we select the following:
All the vivid descriptions of the the excess of war, and the graphic picturing of the soldher's life, that lent such a charm to Leven's "Charles O'Malley," are equalled, and in a great many instances surpassed by the "Guerilla Cheef, or the Romance of War." There is more of the "widinass" of war, 'if we may so extress it, in which the sands the "widinass" of war, 'if we may so extress it, in which the sands the is, are musted in a thrilling manner with the achievements of the countageous and honorable soldier. It is the most intesse's increasing spaced of war that we have ever read. [Critic.
